Play to Leisure

- o As children develop, the way in which they use materials changes from functional to constructive, then on to dramatic, and finally games with rules. (Piaget)
- o Children aged eight and above have mastered a variety of physical, social and cognitive skills.
- o They have a certain degree of mastery of their gross and fine motor skills as well as general coordination
- o They can often understand more complex rules and concepts in their play.
- o Crave more challenging types of play and leisure activities
